New Pastor Welcomed; Assumes Pastorate Congregational Church

A large congregation which well filled the church was present last Sunday at the Northfield Trinitarian Congregational Church in East Northfield to welcome the new Pastor, Rev. W. Stanley Carne and to participate in his initial service. Mr. Carne took for his sermon "With Christ in the Up-lands." He spoke of nature in the form of the handwork of God and from it deduced its appeal to humanity to lead a life of spiritual conception—"God is in His Holy Temple, let all the world keep silence." His remarks were full of simple truths. Yet forceful and uplifting and those who attended the services felt that they had indeed received a message of understanding. The service was augmented by singing of the large chorus and by the hymns of the church. As previously stated in The Herald, Mr. Carne comes to Northfield after a splendid service of twelve years at Gorham, Maine and a rich experience of ministerial effort.

With his family—his wife and four children he will occupy the Pattison house on Birnam Road, as the parsonage. The congregation is arranging a public reception to him in the Church vestry on Friday evening, April 15th when it is hoped that the citizens will attend in large numbers to make the acquaintance of both Mr. and Mrs. Carne.

In dismissing him the Council of Congregational Churches passed the following resolutions which will be of interest to the people of Northfield. Whereas the Rev. W. Stanley Carne has resigned from the First Parish Congregational Church at Gorham to accept the pastorate of the Trinitarian church at Northfield, Mass.,—be it resolved: that with deep regret we concur in the request for dismissal and place on record our appreciation of one, whose activities and interests have extended far beyond the confines of this parish. His spirit of good fellowship and his optimism have been immeasurably helpful to all who were privileged to serve under him or be served by him in church and community activities.

Unsparring of time and strength he has put his talent for song and word into the service of his Master and Lord. He has maintained the fires of missionary zeal and has preached without faltering the message of a Divine Saviour, adequate for a needy world. Throughout his ministry in Gorham he has been aided and sustained by cultured and gracious personality of Mrs. Carne whose charm has won for her a host of friends and whose contribution to the Christian life of this community assures her a place in the hearts and memories of the people of all denominations.

At the May meeting in 1926, the Rev. W. Stanley Carne was elected a member of the Board of Editors of Congregationalism in Maine. He has served continuously since that time in that capacity serving as Chairman of the Editorial Committee for most if not all of that period. The change of name to the Maine Christian Pilgrim did not involve any change in the personnel of the editors nor any decrease in their interest and loyalty to the publication.

Mr. Carne has cheerfully given much time to the work which the editorship involved. He has attended many meetings of the editorial committee, has been resourceful in making plans for the improvement of the magazine and has written many timely editorials which have combined felicity of expression with nobility of thought.

The cheerful co-operation which characterized Mr. Carne in his relations with the editors of our State Paper and as moderator of the Conference has been shown in many ways in his connection with the work of our Conference and the larger fellowship of all Christian Workers. To the church at Gorham we extend our sympathy and the loss of a beloved leader and his wife and commend the church to the guidance of the Holy Spirit in the selection of a worthy successor.

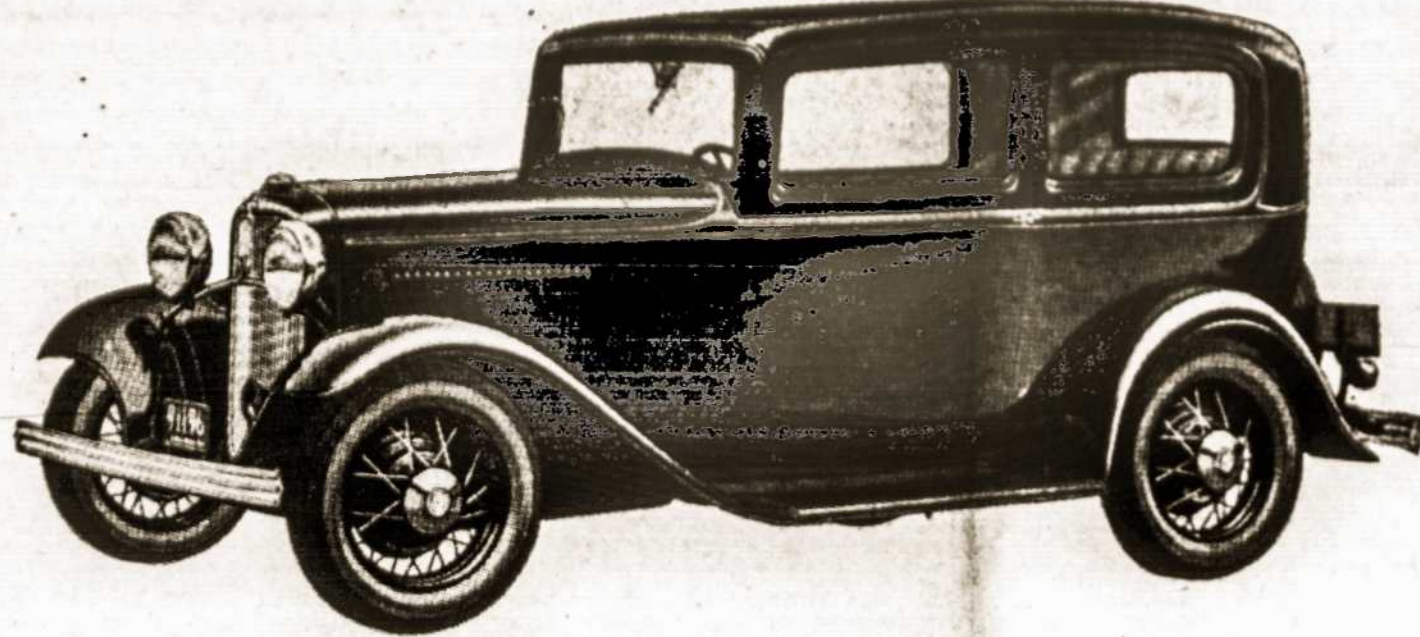

In this hour when we release Mr. Carne from his labor in Gorham we would send him to his new field of endeavor, with our prayers that the blessing of God may follow him in all richness; that the years of future service be filled with joy and satisfaction in work well done, and that the success attendant upon his effort here may continue in increasing measure in days to come.

Respectfully submitted
R. A. MacDonald,
Dr. Morris L. Turk

Ford Car Is Here; Showing Made At Spencer's Garage

Complete details of the new V-8 cylinder Ford car which is to be introduced Friday April 8th in Northfield, has been announced by Mr. Ross L. Spencer of Spencer Bros. Garage.

The new Ford is large, long, roomy, fast, powerful and alert. Its V-8 cylinder engine develops 65 horsepower and it is capable of 75 miles an hour.

Fourteen body types of modern, streamline design are offered. A four-cylinder engine developing 50 horsepower also can be supplied with any of these body types at a lower price.

The Editor of The Herald was privileged to see the new Ford upon invitation at a recent showing and he pronounced it as smart, classy and a real car.

Numerous mechanical advances are incorporated in the new car. These embrace a synchronized silent gear shift and silent second gear, rubber engine mountings, down-draft carburetor and carburetor silencer, automatic spark control, fuel pump and rear fuel tank. Other improvements include a newly-designed rear spring, thermostatically-controlled Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, large four-wheel brakes, newly designed electrically welded steel-spike wheels with large hubs and hub caps and large tires. The chassis and running gear are cushioned by rubber insulators in the spring shackles and shock absorber links. The body is insulated from the frame by rubber pads.

The new bodies are fresh and modern from the gracefully rounded V-type radiator to rear bumper. The air-flow lines are carried out by the long hood with its rustless steel center strip, the slanting safety glass windshield, and rounded roof line. The convex lamps, full-crowned fenders and long, low running board harmonize with the balance of the design.

Body interiors are roomy and richly furnished. Seats are of new style, designed for utmost comfort. Driver seats in all closed cars are adjustable. A large ventilator is provided in the cowl. The oval instrument panel is in engine-turned finish and has a rustless steel mounting strip. Inside sun visors, which fold out of the way when not in use, are provided in all closed cars.

The new Ford V-8 engine is remarkably free from vibration. The engine is of the 90-degree V-type developing 65 brake horsepower.

The crankshaft is statically and dynamically balanced and its throws counterbalanced. The crankshaft, connecting rods and pistons also are in balance so that the engine operates with remarkable smoothness at all engine speeds. Pistons are of aluminum alloy and have three rings, the lower acting as an oil-control ring.

Cylinder blocks and crankcase are cast in one unit, giving exceedingly rigid engine construction. New type, one-piece valves, which eliminate tappets, operate directly from the camshaft without pushrods.

Connecting rods from opposite pistons are placed side by side on each 90-degree crankshaft throw.

A cast aluminum cover embracing the intake manifold forms the top of the engine, giving it an unusually finished appearance. The down-draft carburetor and the fuel pump pump are mounted on this cover.

The gas is preheated in the intake manifold by a hot spot created by hot exhaust gases surging back and forth through a small passage in the manifold cover plate. Exhaust ports are on the outside of the engine blocks, the left exhaust pipe being carried around the front of the engine.

The distributor operates directly from the front end of the camshaft eliminating the use of interposed gears. Spark control is automatic. Crankshaft and crank pin bearings are lubricated by pressure as are the main bearings of the camshaft. Pistons and valves are oiled by spray and splash.

A fan of airplane propeller type and two centrifugal water pumps together with the large surface of the radiator insure ample cooling under all driving conditions.

The riding comfort of the cars is due to many factors, but particularly to the new flexible transverse cantilever springs, larger tires, rubber insulation and the newly designed shock absorbers.

The Ford rear spring is of new design, being flatter and lower. It is mounted on perches at the rear of the axle housing and bowed out so as to clear the differential housing.

The new brakes have a braking surface of 186 square inches. Wheels are 18 inches in diameter.

The drive is of the familiar Ford torque tube type.

The New Ford V-8 and 4-cylinder cars will be shown in Northfield for the first time on Friday the 8th at Spencer Bros. Garage.

"In view of the fact that more than 8,000 Ford dealers must be supplied, we are particularly gratified to be able to state that the new Fords are to be available to us at this time," Mr. Spencer said. "Word just received from The Ford Motor Company's Cambridge branch advises that the cars we are to have for display are already enroute."

"We have of late been fairly swamped with inquiries. Aside from a large number of visitors to our showrooms, we have been in receipt of many telephone calls, including inquiries from out-of-town points. To date we have been obliged to depend upon pictures and literature to satisfy all inquiries. But on Friday the new cars will be here to speak for themselves."

Mr. Spencer said that word from Dearborn, Michigan, is to the effect that all production schedules are being increased to accommodate the orders for cars that are pouring in from all parts of the country.

Special plans are being made for welcoming and demonstrating the cars here.

Bargeron Program Wins Approval; Legion Profits

The American Legion benefit performance Wednesday night at Town Hall was a success from every angle. The large audience was greatly pleased by the performance of The Musical Bargeron and the American Legion Welfare Fund was helped substantially by the proceeds of the affair.

The program was divided into three parts: minstrel show, musical entertainment and general dancing. Much favorable comment was heard about the unusual talent and ability of the Bargeron family as entertainers and musicians. An interesting and dramatic touch was added to the evening's enjoyment when Mr. Bargeron announced that his wife's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ryther of Millers Falls were celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary. The appropriate music and applause which followed seemed to put the whole affair above and beyond the realm of mere professional entertainment.

Between the sections of the program candy was sold by Boy Scouts who had also been of great assistance in the sale of tickets.

In addition to the large number of Northfield people present there were representatives from Keene, Brattleboro, Hinsdale, Millers Falls, Turners Falls and Erving.

The officers and Welfare Committee of the Legion expressed their gratitude for the loyal support they received from residents of Northfield and vicinity. More than fifty dollars will be available for the Welfare Fund as a result of the affair.

Webster, Miss Mira B. Wilson, Dr. A. H. Wright, and Samuel E. Walker.

Hermion Students Receive Cum Laude; Other Hermion Notes

Bishop Herbert Welch of the Methodist Episcopal area of Pittsburgh was the speaker in assembly last Saturday at the exercises of the Mount Hermion chapter of Cum Laude honor scholastic society. Nine members of the senior class who have maintained the highest average during their whole course at the school were the recipients of this honor.

The secretary of the society, L. L. Norton, gave a short history of the founding and purpose of the organization and later presented keys to the new members. Dr. Henry F. Cutler, president, awarded the certificates of membership. The society was established in 1929 here.

Bishop Welch was introduced by Mr. Norton, the two having been roommates together in Wesleyan. "The Purpose and Responsibilities of an Educated Man" was the topic of the speaker. He stressed the need of education for leadership and pointed out the large number of college-trained men now occupying high positions.

"Along with this power gained by education," the speaker stated that "there must be direction and purpose." Bishop Welch then declared that the need for constructive and unselfish leadership is greatly needed in the world today.

Among the number of men receiving awards, are two foreign-born students, Petter Farevaag of Oslo, Norway, and Jose Gomez of Havana, Cuba; others were Adrian Balstra, New York City; Jean Carter, Hillsboro, N. H.; B. H. Hubbard, Syracuse; Frederic Hubert, Cambridge, Mass.; Arthur Medlyn, Richmond, Mass.; Stephen Powell, New York; and John Schmitt, Meriden, Conn.

Bishop Herbert Welch of the Methodist Episcopal area of Pittsburgh was the speaker Sunday at the services in Memorial chapel. His text this morning was "The Kingdom of Heaven."

"The kingdom of heaven was the center of Christ's teaching," the bishop declared. "Although people in His day thought Christ meant a temporal kingdom, He said that the kingdom was to be in the hearts of men."

"The kingdom is within men if they will develop it. It is also social, entering into all the relations of men. It is in the school, in international affairs, and in business. In all these spheres of life," the bishop concluded, "the kingdom of heaven ought to be found."

A violin recital was given in the evening by Harold Leslie of Greenfield, accompanied by Carlton W. L'Hommedieu of Mount Hermion.

The Mount Hermion Glee Club gave a concert at the Methodist Church in Brattleboro last Monday evening. The program was much enjoyed.

They Jacked Deer; Were Fined $100

Three young men, Medos Cummings, Warwick; Louis Venette, Athol, and Harry Britt, Athol, were placed on trial Monday morning at the special session of superior court before Judge Arthur E. Butterworth, each charged with violating the game laws.

The jury late Monday afternoon returned verdicts of guilty against each defendant. Following plea by defense counsel for leniency the court refused to show any sympathy and imposed fines of $100 on each. Venette and Britt paid, but Cummings, being unable to do so, was remanded to the county jail in charge of Sheriff Fred Doane.

EDITORIAL

Someone recently asked the Editor how he liked the "newspaper game." Well the Editor is no novice at the work. As a boy less than twenty, he published a small paper and has been a journalist, writer and correspondent ever since because of its "lure." He has edited several small publications, published a book, and was at one time part owner and Editor of the Peckskill (N. Y.) Daily News. In the words of Mr. Morgage of the Bangor (Me.) News speaking before a Rotary Club the answer may be summed up.

"The newspaper business is fascinating. It deals with the mingled tears and cheers of the world. It chronicles briefly and accurately history of the day. If you wish to get a true attitude of the feelings of past days, go to the newspaper files and read the editorials, the feature stories, and the advertising. Here you will find a true perspective of bygone days. Papers must be leaders in the public opinion. No factor, not even the schools or the church, is as great a factor in this modern, complex structure of civilization of which we are a part." Yes we like our work.

Speaking of newspapers, it is surprising how much news is gathered in the course of a day or week, and especially how much is evidence of the activity within one's town or city. The newspaper is the pulse of its people and individuals in a town or city as well as organizations through some one of its officers should see to it that proper news information of happenings and events are sent to the editorial department. It is the only way to have the whole truth stated and as you would like to read it. Errors creep in, but grateful that there are no more errors than there are. Many of you have heard of the man who, like Mark Twain, had the privilege of seeing his own obituary appear in the paper. This man went to the editor, and remonstrated, insisted that he was very much alive, the editor, one of those pompous chaps who believe that other people made all the mistakes, retorted that "The Clarion never retracts, but next week I will enter your name in the birth column and give you a fresh start."

At last the people—not only of Northfield, but of the State and in all the good U. S. A., are waking up to the fact that our various governments are spending too much money—and a lot too much. The days of our prosperity had driven us to extravagance and perhaps recklessness and we now have financial problems, high tax rates—and from a perusal of the proposed tax measures at Washington—"to balance the budget" we will have a lot more taxes to pay. Of course in national affairs it is too late to avoid these heavy taxes with a two billion deficit staring us in the face. But in State and Town affairs we must stop appropriating monies unless we want high State assessments and high local taxes.

Floyd Gibbons is back in Frisco from the battlefields of China and Japan and now all of us who have missed his voice on the radio will hope that he may again send his utterances over the ether and tell us something of his impressions in the Far East. Although China and Japan are far from us, many in Northfield have followed events there with a great deal of interest because of friends who have lived or are living there, engaged in business or religious effort. Because of this fact we have formed our opinions and shown our sympathies but in the first words to be uttered by Gibbons he said, "It is my personal opinion that the trouble between Japan and China is not over by a long shot. America can only have one policy in such a crisis—keep out of it." And so with such admonition let us in Northfield be slow in displaying our preferences.

The Poet's Corner

WANDERERS

Where do you go, you little paths,
That wander off to the hills?
From the railroad train, as it rumbles
by,
I see you climbing away to the sky,
And oh, but I wish I could follow—
follow!

To the stream, and the woods, and
the fern-deep hollow.
Where, if I listen, and wait a while,
I'll hear the train whistle a long, long
mile,
Crying because it may not turn
From the hard, hot rails to the deep
lush fern
That springs far off in the hills.

DUSK

The new moon riding down the western sky,
A silver scimitar.
Through wild-maned clouds, a wind
that bids them fly
Into the moaning sea where islands
lie.
Fierce stallions of the desert and the
night,
Pausing by dark sea-meadows in their
flight,
And over them, a star.

OPPORTUNITY

By John J. Ingalls (1833-1900).
Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate Deserts and seas remote, and passing
by Hovel and mart and palace—soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise
before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or
hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and
woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly im-
plore;
I answer not, and I return no more!

THE ANSWER

By Walter Malone (1866-1915).
They do me wrong who say I come no
more,
When once I knock and fail to find
you in;
For every day I stand outside your
door,
And bid you wake, and rise to
fight and win.
Wait not for precious chances passed
away, Weep not for golden ages on the
wane;
Each night I burn the records of the
day;
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that
have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf
and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past with
its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to
come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your
hands and weep;
I lend my arm to all who say "I
can."
No shame-faced outcast ever sank so
deep
But yet might rise and be again a
man!
Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell!
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven!
Each morning gives thee wings to flee
from hell,
Each night a star to guide thy feet
to heaven!

"Opportunity," was written by John J. Ingalls, since dead, when he was United States Senator from Kansas. The answer bearing the same title is the work of Walter Malone, who takes a diametrically opposite view.

Judge Walter Malone was born in

Franklin County chapter, American Red Cross, is making plans to secure government flour for the needy of Franklin county. Under the act of Congress, flour may be had only for "Needy and distressed people" and the trusteeship of the American Red Cross requires, therefore, that need must always be the basis for distribution of flour. Where there is actual need flour may be distributed through any organization in the county doing welfare work. This includes Welfare departments of towns,
Legion posts, or other similar bodies.
These agencies should apply through the local Red Cross, stating the number of families now being fed by them, the number expected to require food during the next ninety days and the number of families for whom flour is requested; the number of pounds desired and whether in 24-pound, 48-pound or 98-pound sacks.
The quantity ordered must not be in excess of the requirements for the next 90 days.

is like a farmer's work. Cultivate a field, harrow and drag it as you will for a year—for ten years. Then quit for a single season and the weeds and brush will spring up and claim it.

So with advertising. Let a concern advertise for a number of years until it has created a big volume of business. Then cease advertising even for a short time and its business suffers.

Dresser Defeated In Greenfield Match

Fans say that a good wrestling show was put on at Greenfield by the Beagle Club last Thursday evening March 31st.

Bob Johnson of Montpelier, Vt., won the main bout from Jack Morgan of Tufts college, taking the first and third falls of a clean match that found both grapplers breaking quick and taking every possible advantage. Ted Germaine of South Boston and Paul Adams of Easthampton put up a slam-bang affair in the semi-final bout. He and Adams wrestled to a 45-minute bout.

Billy Penno, the flying Frenchman from Canada, proved himself the master over the slow and easy going Lord Chapman of England.

But Chapman was no slouch on the mat. He was good and it took Penno 22 minutes to pin his man's shoulders. Joe Dion of Northampton substituted in the match with Red Davian from Holyoke. Davian put up the best exhibition.

The opening bout was a contest between two county lads, Joe Stewart of Greenfield and Roy Dresser, Northfield's champion. Stewart copped the bout in 19 minutes with a body hold. The match was slated for 20 minutes and Stewart won none too soon. The boys appeared rugged and in the best of shape for the bout.

Frank Petrin refereed, George St. Cyr announced and Charlie McNamara was the timer.

George F. Booth, publisher of the Worcester Telegram-Gazette has been named by President Hoover to a place on the United States Naval academy board of visitors. The group, totaling 18 in all, is composed of members of both houses of congress, retired naval officers and representative citizens. The board is scheduled to convene at Annapolis on April 25.

EDITORIAL

Someone recently asked the Editor how he liked the "newspaper game." Well the Editor is no novice at the work. As a boy less than twenty, he published a small paper and has been a journalist, writer and correspondent ever since because of its "lure." He has edited several small publications, published a book, and was at one time part owner and Editor of the Peckskill (N. Y.) Daily News. In the words of Mr. Morgage of the Bangor (Me.) News speaking before a Rotary Club the answer may be summed up.

"The newspaper business is fascinating. It deals with the mingled tears and cheers of the world. It chronicles briefly and accurately history of the day. If you wish to get a true attitude of the feelings of past days, go to the newspaper files and read the editorials, the feature stories, and the advertising. Here you will find a true perspective of bygone days. Papers must be leaders in the public opinion. No factor, not even the schools or the church, is as great a factor in this modern, complex structure of civilization of which we are a part." Yes we like our work.

Speaking of newspapers, it is surprising how much news is gathered in the course of a day or week, and especially how much is evidence of the activity within one's town or city. The newspaper is the pulse of its people and individuals in a town or city as well as organizations through some one of its officers should see to it that proper news information of happenings and events are sent to the editorial department. It is the only way to have the whole truth stated and as you would like to read it. Errors creep in, but grateful that there are no more errors than there are. Many of you have heard of the man who, like Mark Twain, had the privilege of seeing his own obituary appear in the paper. This man went to the editor, and remonstrated, insisted that he was very much alive, the editor, one of these pompous chaps who believe that other people made all the mistakes, retorted that "The Clarion never retracts, but next week I will enter your name in the birth column and give you a fresh start."

At last the people—not only of Northfield, but of the State and in all the good U. S. A., are waking up to the fact that our various governments are spending too much money—and a lot too much. The days of our prosperity had driven us to extravagance and perhaps reckless-ness and we now have financial problems, high tax rates—and from a perusal of the proposed tax measures at Washington—"to balance the budget" we will have a lot more taxes to pay. Of course in national affairs its too late to avoid these heavy taxes with a two billion deficit staring us in the face. But in State and Town affairs we must stop appropriating monies unless we want high State assessments and high local taxes.

Floyd Gibbons is back in 'Frisco from the battlefields of China and Japan and now all of us who have missed his voice on the radio will hope that he may again send his utterances over the ether and tell us something of his impressions in the Far East. Although China and Japan are far from us, many in Northfield have followed events there with a great deal of interest because of friends who have lived or are living there, engaged in business or religious effort. Because of this fact we have formed our opinions and shown our sympathies but in the first words to be uttered by Gibbons he said, "It is my personal opinion that the trouble between Japan and China is not over by a long shot. America can only have one policy in such a crisis—keep out of it." And so with such admonition let us in Northfield be slow in displaying our preferences.

The Poet's Corner

WANDERERS

Where do you go, you little paths,
That wander off to the hills?
From the railroad train, as it rumbles
by,
I see you climbing away to the sky,
And oh, but I wish I could follow—
follow!

To the stream, and the woods, and
the fern-deep hollow.

Where, if I listen, and wait a while,
I'll hear the train whistle a long, long
mile,
Crying because it may not turn
From the hard, hot rails to the deep
lush fern
That springs far off in the hills.

DUSK

The new moon riding down the western sky,
A silver scimitar.
Through wild-maned clouds, a wind
that bids them fly
Into the moaning sea where islands
lie—
Fierce stallions of the desert and the
night,
Pausing by dark sea-meadows in their
flight,
And over them, a star.

Alice A. Moseley

OPPORTUNITY

By John J. Ingalls (1833-1900).
Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate Deserts and seas remote, and passing
by Hovel and mart and palace—soon or
late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise
before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every
state.
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or
hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and
woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly im-
plore;
I answer not, and I return no more!

THE ANSWER

By Walter Malone (1866-1915).
They do me wrong who say I come no
more,
When once I knock and fail to find
you in;
For every day I stand outside your
door,
And bid you wake, and rise to
fight and win.
Wait not for precious chances passed
away, Weep not for golden ages on the
wane;
Each night I burn the records of the
day;
At sunrise every soul is born again.
Laugh like a boy at splendors that
have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf
and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past with
its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to
come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your
hands and weep;
I lend my arm to all who say "I
can."
No shame-faced outcast ever sank so
deep
But yet might rise and be again a
man!

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from
thy spell!
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven!
Each morning gives thee wings to flee
from hell,
Each night a star to guide thy feet
to heaven!

"Opportunity" was written by John J. Ingalls, since dead, when he was United States Senator from Kansas. The answer bearing the same title
is the work of Walter Malone, who
takes a diametrically opposite view.
Judge Walter Malone was born in DeSoto County, Miss., Feb. 10, 1866 and died in Memphis, Tenn., May 18, 1915.

Advertising

is like a farmer's work. Cultivate a field, harrow and drag it as you will for a year—for ten years. Then quit for a single season and the weeds and brush will spring up and claim it.

So with advertising. Let a concern advertise for a number of years until it has created a big volume of business. Then cease advertising even for a short time and its business suffers.

Competition is so keen that to survive in the business world, the merchant must tell the public what he has to sell—not once only—but constantly.

To this end THE NORTHFIELD HERALD offers its columns as a means of reaching the buyers in this locality.

We cover the field as no other paper does and the merchant who wants trade from this territory will do well to use liberally the advantages offered by

Mr. Elliott Speer writing from Edinburgh says "It is perfectly great to get the Northfield news in The Herald week by week."

The Layman's League of the Church of the Unity in Springfield will hold its annual meeting Friday evening, April 29th and will be addressed by our good friend of Northfield the Hon. Herbert C. Parsons.

The Executive Committee of the Fortnightly Club held an important meeting to transact business at the home of Mrs. M. E. Vorce, the president last Wednesday evening, March 30th.

Mrs. G. N. Bond entertained friends at Bridge at her home last Saturday evening.

Mrs. H. A. Lewis with Miss Hodgkin, entertained members of the Book Club at the former's home last Friday.

The Deering Advocate pays a high tribute to that Committee of fifteen citizens of Winchester, N. H., who sensed their religious problem in that town and accomplished a church federation. It mentions their names as follows:

Maurice Partridge, Chairman, Forest A. Frost, Clifford Smith, Lyman A. Gale, Winfred B. Drugg, Thomas Dugan, Edw. H. Fosgate, Harry R. Holmes, Frances R. Burbank, Wesley H. Douglas, Parke F. Weeks, Minnie P. Pierce, Dwight Holton, Elsie P. Johnson, Palmer Bliss, Frank Kelom substitute.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Coburn of Mount Vernon motored to Northfield last Tuesday to open their summer cottage in Mountain Park for the season. They returned home on Thursday and expect to be back in Northfield for the summer in May.

Capt. and Mrs. J. Wisdom are expected at their summer home in Rustic Ridge early in May.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Barr have returned from an enjoyable trip to Bermuda and down the coast to the Panama Canal.

Mrs. A. P. Fitt has returned from New York where she visited Miss Billings. She expected to go on to her daughter's home at Wayne, Pa., but the illness of the children prevented and she brought home to Northfield her grandson who since his arrival has been stricken with whooping cough.

Last Wednesday April 6th was Army Day, the anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany. Although Gov. Ely suggested flags be displayed but few were so shown in Northfield.

Dresser Defeated In Greenfield Match

Fans say that a good wrestling show was put on at Greenfield by the Beagle Club last Thursday evening March 31st.

Bob Johnson of Montpelier, Vt., won the main bout from Jack Morgan of Tufts college, taking the first and third falls of a clean match that found both grapplers breaking quick and taking every possible advantage. Ted Germaine of South Boston and Paul Adams of Easthampton put up a slam-bang affair in the semi-final bout. He and Adams wrestled to a 45-minute bout.

Billy Peno, the flying Frenchman from Canada, proved himself the master over the slow and easy going Lord Chapman of England.

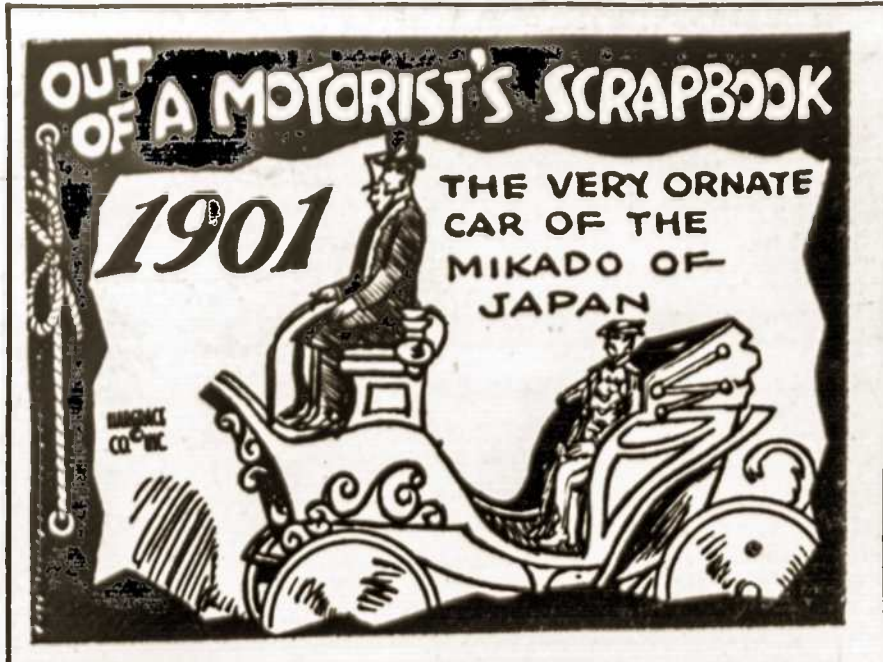

But Chapman was no slouch on the mat. He was good and it took Peno 22 minutes to pin his man's shoulders. Joe Dion of Northampton substituted in the match with Red Davian from Holyoke. Davian put up the best exhibition.

The opening bout was a contest between two county lads, Joe Stewart of Greenfield and Roy Dwyer, Northfield's champion. Stewart copped the bout in 19 minutes with a body hold. The match was slated for 20 minutes and Stewart won none too soon. The boys appeared rugged and in the best of shape for the bout.

Frank Petrin refereed, George St. Cyr announced and Charlie McNamara was the timer.

George F. Booth, publisher of the Worcester Telegram-Gazette has been named by President Hoover to a place on the United States Naval academy board of visitors. The group, totaling 18 in all, is composed of members of both houses of congress, retired naval officers and representative citizens. The board is scheduled to convene at Annapolis on April 25.

Northfield Nursemaid Accuses Her Employer

Dewey Newcomb of Vernon arrested last Thursday by Sheriff P. J. O'Keefe for breach of the peace and grand larceny, secured $300 bail Saturday afternoon. No date for a trial has been set.

Newcomb in municipal court last Thursday pleaded not guilty to the charges made by Josephine Wozniak

17 of Northfield, employed at the home of Newcomb as nursemaid. She claimed on Wednesday she had an argument with Newcomb and his wife and that she left the place and started walking down the road toward Northfield when she discovered that $50 sent her by her parents was missing from her pocketbook.

Miss Wozniak returned to the Newcomb place and another argument ensued. During this she claims Newcomb struck her.

Got Trimmed

A bowling team representing Northfield and consisting of Messrs. Parker, Grover, Dawe, Lazelle and Porter got soundly trimmed by the "Travis Terriers" of Greenfield in a match game at Greenfield last Thursday evening. The score was 1835 to 1263. A little more practice boys.

The largest single advertisement received by The Herald appears in this issue. It is of that large and progressive establishment of Montgomery Ward & Co., at Brattleboro and since the closing of the Greenfield store, the patronage of this firm in this territory is directed to the Brattleboro store. Patrons are always satisfied customers of the Brattleboro store.

Attention is called to the advertisements in this issue. Look them over and patronize the advertisers who in considering Northfield and this territory through The Herald are worthy of our patronage. The Smart Shoppe advertisement makes its initial appearance in this number.

Many of our citizens were delighted to hear the concert over the radio last Monday evening at 6.30 o'clock of the orchestra and Glee Club of Carlton College of Northfield, Minn.

Among our young people who expect to attend the Y. W. C. A., conference at West Springfield are: Misses Grace McGowan, Dorothy Blossom, Rena Tyler, Beryl James, Jean Giebel and Virginia Mann. Miss Jean Giebel was chosen to go as a delegate to represent the students of the high school here. Mrs. W. G. Webber will plan for their transportation and they will be entertained in private homes.

Will Northfield plant a tree to the memory of George Washington in this bi-centennial year? That is the question asked of The Herald by the American Tree Association. We refer the matter to the consideration of the Historical Society.

Where is the fire station sign at Town Hall? Won't somebody please return it, for without it the stranger wouldn't know we had a fire station in town. How about putting a permanent sign on the building—"Northfield Fire Department."

The Henry H. Johnson Women's Relief Corps held its regular meeting at Alexander hall last Friday. Mrs. Louise Krause, president of the organization, presided. Two members will attend the state convention in Boston on April 11 and 12 as delegates from Northfield. They are Mrs. Krause and Mrs. Lottie George of South Vernon.

Mass will be celebrated at St. Patrick's Church, Northfield, Sunday morning. Rev. P. E. Carey of Millers Falls is pastor and Rev. W. J. Radzig is curate.

The Board of Selectmen are still considering seriously the purchase of the new fire truck for Northfield. They are to be commended for their careful study of our need and the certainty that they will purchase only what is the best for the money to be expended. No outside influence should prejudice their determination.

Miss Evelyn Hess has been absent from her duties at the Northfield Hotel and her friends will sympathize with her in the loss of a devoted sister by death last week.

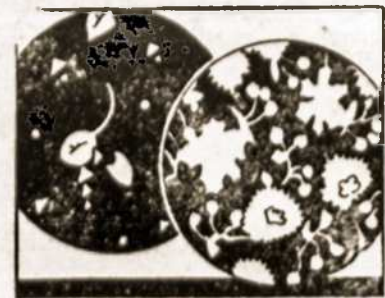

Miss Alice Zabriske, who has charge of the Personnell department at the Seminary for the conferences each summer has the sympathy of her many friends in Northfield over the loss by death of her sister who passed away last week.

The Board of Registrars were in session in the selectmen's room in Town Hall on Wednesday.

Because of the prevalence of measles the "gym" classes at the Seminary for town girls are temporarily discontinued.

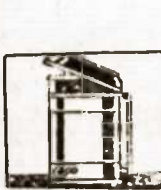

The pitch team of Harmony lodge of Masons of Northfield defeated the Republican lodge team in a tournament at Greenfield last Tuesday night by a score of 38 to 34, breaking the deadlock of 77 points, and bringing the total Northfield score to 115 points against Grenfield's 110. Twenty members from each lodge played in the third of the series of four games. The final meet will be held in Northfield April 13.

Rev. and Mrs. Carne received the last of their household goods from their old home in Gorham, Me., on Monday afternoon. They are now beginning to get fairly well settled and enjoy their new home very much. This entertainment was a success and every one enjoyed it. Quite a lot came in spite of the very bad traveling caused by the deep snow but it was worthy of a much larger crowd, and whoever remained away missed an evening of pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Meissner and 3 children moved Saturday from Yonkers, N. Y., to the "Newton Homestead." Mrs. Meissner is the youngest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. George E. Tyler.

Report says, that Mrs. Nellie Rice who has been seriously ill for several weeks at the home of Mrs. Jennie Fairman is now at the home of her cousin, R. E. Blodgett and is much improved.

In spite of the cold weather and the recent deep snow, the garden lilies have come up and are growing fast, about 2 1-2 inches tall, with green leaves. They seem to enjoy the wintry weather.

The services next Sunday at the South Vernon Church will be as usual 10:45 a.m., sermon by the pastor; 12:15 p.m., Church School; 7 p.m., Song service; 7:30 p.m., sermon by the pastor; 7:30 p.m., Thursday, mid-week service at the Vernon Home; 7:30 p.m., Friday, Choir rehearsal.

Two fine sermons were given by the pastor last Sunday. In the morning he spoke on "Christ's Example." The choir sang a beautiful selection, "The Name of Jesus" and a beautiful solo was sung by E. W. Dunklee, "Christ, My Lord in All." In the evening, after the fine song service, the pastor spoke on "The Garden of the Soul." A beautiful solo was sung by Mrs. Gertrude Gibson, "Trust and Obey."

Mrs. Carrie Dittmar, Matron at the Vernon Home is ill with a severe cold and has gone to the home of her daughter in Manchester, N. H., for a two weeks rest. Mrs. Clara Pratt is caring for Miss Hunt who is ill at the Vernon Home. Miss Ruth McNamara has recovered her health and returned to the Home on Monday.

Work To Begin Soon On New River Bridge

Word has been received by the freight agent at Erving that the steel for the bridge on the new French King highway is to be shipped to that point and drawn from there. Various trucking concerns have been in town lately inspecting the highway prior to offering bids for the work of hauling the steel to its destination. The steel will be brought over the main highway from Erving to Millers Falls and then over High street to a convenient point on the river from which it can be lifted into place as needed.

This will eliminate the necessity of using the bridge connecting Erving and Montague at Millers Falls which has been judged unsafe for the weight of the loads and is the reason for the shipment on to Erving rather than to the local station. Some of the girders to be used in the new bridge will weigh in the vicinity of 26 tons and it is expected that the steel will arrive in Erving on or about April 15th.

Farmers' Exchange Have Good Year

At its annual meeting on March 12 the following new directors were elected by the Associated Farmers' Exchange, Inc.: Arthur G. Galusha, president of the Co-operative Farmers, Inc., Williamstown, Mass.; Dr. Eugene O. Brielman, president of the Pittsfield (Mass.) Co-operative Farmers' Exchange; A. R. Moody, president of the Shelburne Falls (Mass.) Co-operative Farmers' Exchange; Raymond E. Lego, president of the Orange-Athol Co-operative Farmers' Exchange, Athol, Mass.; Fred Miller, president of the Bernardston Co-operative Farmers' Exchange, Northfield, Mass.; Julius Cranston, vice president of the Pittsfield (Mass.) Co-operative Farmers' Exchange, and Milton A. Holmes, president of the Associated Farmers' Exchanges.

The report of the president of the corporation showed that business during 1931 was more than 600 per cent ahead of 1930 and that during the first two months of 1932 it was more than 200 per cent ahead of the corresponding period during 1931.

Each of the 10 exchanges associated with the corporation was reported as on a paying basis and aggregate surplus was said to be more than $25,000.

Philip H. Smith, state chemist, Massachusetts Agricultural College, was commended for the excellent work done by his department in checking up the feed purchased by the various exchanges. His close co-operation has made it possible for the various farmers buying through the exchanges to know that their feed is exactly as represented on the bag tags.

Mr. Galusha reported that there are now 10 cows which have been fed feed purchased through the exchange that have made world records during the past year. Several of these cows have taken grand champion prizes at state fairs throughout the East and three of them have been grand champions at the national dairy shows.

It was unanimously voted that the headquarters of the business should be moved to Greenfield, Mass. The president was instructed to arrange for suitable quarters at that place.

At the board meeting following the stockholders' meeting, Milton A. Holmes, Worcester, Mass., was re-elected president and Harold D. Munis, Northampton, Mass., vice president. Gordon G. Oulton, Fitchburg, and Hugh S. Ward, Shelburne Falls, together with Mr. Munis, were re-appointed district managers. Frank C. Cooke, Orange, Mass., was again put in charge of feed inspections.

Dr. Cance of the state department of economics, and Professor Rowe, his assistant, were extended votes of thanks for their helpful co-operation during the year.

Child Labor Is Again Questioned

The conditions under which 5,000 children in the entire Connecticut valley tobacco growing region of whom more than 1,000 are within this state, work in the hot fields during the summer were described at the meeting of the Springfield branch of the Socialist party in Hotel Charles by J. Paul Williams, director of religious education in Massachusetts State college.

Mr. Williams told of his personal experiences when summer before last he and several students conducted a survey of conditions among child laborers in the tobacco fields at the behest of the Consumers' League of Massachusetts.

He expressed particular disapproval of the theory that it is good for youngsters to get out in the hot sun and work for the sake of air and the tan they get. He said that he approved of work being done by children as an integral part of their education but he declared his opposition to the belief that eight or nine or 10 hours a day is in any way beneficial especially when the children are gathered in unsupervised gangs.

According to his survey there were about 45 per cent of these children under 14 years old, and he pointed out the fact that the Massachusetts law requires a child 14 or 15 years of age to have a health certificate, but omits to mention the child under 14.

A government survey, he said, indicated that 62 per cent of the 5,000 or more children were under 14 years old. He commented on the fact that Massachusetts furnishes protection to all children in factories but neglects those working on the farms and in the open. He said that the boys would average nine and a half hours a day of work and at a wage ranging from $1 to $2.50 per day.

South Egremont Takes A Forward Step

The third number of a unique sub-tabloid newspaper, The Olde Egremont Herald, published in South Egremont is out with a claim for the apple tree championship of New England. In an editorial announcing publication of an article by Walter Prichard Eaton, noted dramatic critic and outdoorsman, which is published in The Herald under the title "The Appalachian Trail," the assertion is made that this trail, which Mr. Eaton traces through the Berkshire Hills portion of its extent "from Georgia to Kathadin," runs right past the foot of a giant apple tree which, it is believed, was planted by "Johnny Applesseed," himself, who passed over the trail on his way from Springfield, Mass., to Ohio to plant the Ohio valley to orchards.

The tree, which stands in the orchard of Major Hugh Smiley, "principal proprietor of Olde Egremont," is declared to be 12 feet in circumference and to have a spread of 78 feet.

Mr. Eaton's article gives a picture of the modern development of the old trail which was first made by Mahican (not Mohican) Indians fleeing from the Hudson River valley and from their enemies into Massachusetts.

In keeping with the general tone of the Herald which, it is announced is being published "as a contribution to the modern culture of America founded on its Historic past" a third installment of a serial story called "The Land of Yesterday" is published. The story by "J. L. E. P." is reminiscent in style of J. Fenimore Cooper—except that the hero is a Mahican Indian rather than a Mohican.

"J. L. E. P." is suspected to be none other than John L. E. Pell, a resident of Egremont, author of the screen dramas, "Down to the Sea in Ships" and "America," and a noted antiquarian authority.

The Herald puts its foot forward with advertisements on the front page and follows it up with more ads on the back page, typographically adherent to the old-time style such as was used by newspapers of the 18th century.

Considerable space is given, in the ad columns and news columns to the "Formal opening of the General Store," restored and modernized. A good time will be had by all who attend, according to The Herald, for there will be free refreshments and many bargains. The arrival of several loads of Adirondack pine logs to build "real log cabins" is heralded in another news item.

Probably the proudest "scoop" of the month is The Olde Egremont Herald's despatch "by special courier from Washington, D. C., via New York" published under the headline "Local Girl Makes Good." The item tells of the crowning of Rita Reyes as a star of the Washington Civic Opera Company and relates that she was brought up in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hulbert, Olde Egremont artists, as Rita Rozada.

Henry Ford will be interested to read in The Herald of the restoration of another old mill, the Mount Everett Flouring mill in South Egremont, which is 100 years old this year and is to have a new water-wheel; likewise in a tiny ad which announces the April opening of the "Village Smithy and the Weaving Shop" in the "original village blacksmith shop for the manufacture of hardware of old-time style and rugs of Colonial pattern under expert Supervisors."

Very proudly The Herald tells of its "staff artist" exhibiting "in paint" at New York galleries and calls attention to her art in the illustrations in this issue, among them her conception of "The Spirit of Olde Egremont."

The Herald is being privately printed, charges no subscription rates and gives away its advertising to purely local business interests.

Rabbit Raising A New Industry

The county has a new industry—commercial rabbit raising which is expected to prove profitable to residents of Franklin county. Announcement of the industry established here by the Lehigh Packing Co., of Allentown, Pa., was made by G. M. Crawford, local representative and field superintendent for this section. He has management of the branch office located in the Garden Theatre Building, Room 210, Greenfield, Mass.

Commercial rabbit breeding has for many years been a great success on the Pacific coast. This territory and Windsor, Conn., have been selected as strategic points for New England distribution. The main plant at Emaus, Pa., consists of housing facilities spread over twelve acres for the maintenance of approximately 10,000 animals, as well as units for meat packing, refrigeration and handling of all by-products.

The Lehigh Company is marketing dressed rabbit meat, fur and by-products raised by thousands of associate breeders throughout the eastern United States. Responsibility of the company to the breeders only begins with the purchase of the rabbits from the parent company. Thereafter assistance is given including school sessions, field men, bulletin service, and service stations for the collection of animals raised and purchased by the company live weight under a 15 year contract.

The claim is made that no animal can compete with the rabbit in the production of meat. Breeding has improved them for this purpose as compared with the common cotton tail and the native hares or packrabbits. Young hutch raised rabbits have an average weight of five-pounds at the end of three months.

In addition to the demand for the meat the demand for fur increases. Few people realize how fur coats are made from rabbit skins. Lapin jackets, ermine, fox, imitation leopard, mink, in fact every kind of fur for which American people spend annually millions of dollars come from the backs of rabbits and is dyed to the various types of pelts desired by the furrier.

An improved strain of white rabbits known as Cloverhill Whites has been developed following years of experimentation on the part of the company in its endeavor to secure a tender meat and small bond animal as well as the product of healthy young.

There are at least twenty-five associate breeders in the immediate vicinity which the company invites the public to inspect. These names and addresses may be obtained from the local office.

"THE COHENS AND KELLY'S IN HOLLYWOOD" and "BEAUTY AND THE BOSS"

Having weathered the storms of Paris, Scotland, Atlantic City and the wilds of Africa in the previous pictures of the "Cohens and Kellys" series, capitulating audiences with their hilarious adventures, Sidney and Murray now put their mirth-provoking abilities to the task of out-Hollywooding Hollywood. Advance reports testify to their success in reaching heights of humor that surpass even their funniest escapades in former pictures.

Imagine Cohen and Kelly as big magnates in the picture business! The quiet life the two families are leading in a small middle-western town shattered when Kelly's daughter is suddenly summoned to Hollywood to be a star in pictures? Success comes to the Kelly family in Hollywood. The Cohens follow later, eager to share in the limelight and wealth. Without warning the Kellys are cast from their lofty position when the talking pictures sweep the country, and prosperity and fame come to the Cohens as a new regime takes the industry. Do they they high-hat each other.

The principal characters are supported by June Clyde and Norman Foster, Emma Dunn, Esther Howard, Dorothy Christy, Edwin Maxwell, Eileen Percy, John Roche, Luis Alberni and Robert Creig and other screen celebrities.

"IT'S TOUGH TO BE FAMOUS"
and "WITHOUT HONOR"

Like all people who are at all worth thinking or writing about, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., playing in the First National picture, "It's Tough to Be Famous" at the Lawler Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday is a sum of contradictions, real and imaginary.

He was born the son of one of the wealthiest men in the world, but he lived years in Paris, a struggling art student.

In Paris, part of the time with his mother, part of the time with an American artist of his acquaintance on the Left Bank, he learned something of the fantastic beauty of the things man's imagination has captured. But when he had finished his schooling, which, in things generally known as essential, was extremely meagre for one of his station, the first job he accepted was one as a drug store cowboy in a California mporium of ice cream.

His earliest childhood ambition was to be a tramp—an ambition to which he remains a sort of unwilling martyr. He literally hates work; and hating it, does it as quickly and as thoroughly as he can in order to be done with it.

He is an accomplished victrola player, and plays the piano indifferently by ear; but he has an intimate knowledge of most of the good music of the world. And having it, prefers jazz for a steady diet.

He is very nervous of people, disliking their continuous interest in his affairs; but in a group he as once and easily assumes the center of the stage and would be surprised and perhaps disappointed if it were not accorded him.

He is irresponsible in matters that are sometimes considered important. He doesn't make a serious effort to be punctual. But in little unimportant things he is often fastidious and painstaking, and a slipshod French word, or the wrong author named for a book, or the failure of someone to acknowledge an outstanding play at a football game will unsettle his week.

As a practical joker he admits of only two peers in Hollywood; his father and famous Sid Grauman, and lady interviewers have come to shun him like a plague. He is not above overturning a bowl of soup in their laps or frightening them with an outburst against an innocent and flabbergasted waiter.

He is 170 pounds of good-looking, likeable, intelligent and irresponsible youth. Born into a political minded family, he might have become president; into a military, he might have become a general; but just now, being the crownprince of Hollywood's royal pair, the signs all point to his becoming a motion picture actor of considerable note.

He has a reputation for becoming attached to old clothes, hats, suits, sticks, shoes. But his wardrobe for pictures is one of his hobbies, and he has increased its size and last-minutes styles to proportions boasted by few.

"THE LOST SQUADRON"

"Hollywood Tells All in True Confession!" That might be on description of "The Lost Squadron," playing at the Garden Theatre. Because in spite of its title, this RKO Radio Picture is not "another stunt-flying spectacle." Instead, it's a picture about stunt flyers, which is, as you'll see, another thing entirely.

As nearly everyone knows, Hollywood's best stunt flying is done by men who began as army aviators—war birds who came home to find addresses of welcome instead of jobs. These former heroes found they could earn a living by crashing planes in range of the cameras at fifty dollars a crash, and as nothing else offered either more money or more thrills, they took on the task.

"The Lost Squadron" tells their story, and thus is full of legitimate opportunities for stunt flying thrills, while avoiding the seriousness of a war picture. Written by Dick Grace, who was a famous flyer before he became an author, this liberty magazine romance is blessed with wholly authentic "atmosphere."

But best of all it's a good story, an exciting story, which gives Richard Dix a splendid role as the American ace who returns to find that his girl, now a famous movie star has married a movie director. Since Dix gets his job crashing planes for the same director, it's obvious that the complications set in at once.

As the faithless fiancée Mary Astor is beautiful and glamorous, while Eric von Stroheim plays to the hilt the role of her husband the director, vengeful and fiendish in his machinations, and delightful in his exaggeration of the better-known characteristics of Hollywood czars. Those who know their movies will chortle in delight at the scenes on the "lot" in which von Stroheim, as "von Forst," bellows directions through a megaphone; and the scene before the famous Chinese theatre on a gala opening night, when Mary Astor in the "role" of picture favorite stops before the microphone to say a few words to her public while the hungry war heroes, who hopped a freight to get to Hollywood, look on.

For those who prefer air thrills "The Lost Squadron" offers plenty. One scene of a breaking control wire is guaranteed to make you want to yell a warning to the pilot. You'll hold your breath until the crash comes—even after it comes, and the pilot's pet pup, unhurt, wriggles from the wrecked plane. But what happens to the flyer?

To find that out you must go to the Garden Theatre. You won't be disappointed for "The Lost Squadron" has everything a good picture needs, including a cast that boasts, besides the three principals already mentioned, Dorothy Jordan, Robert Armstrong and Joel McCrea.

"The Secret Garden"
In Children's Theatre

Northfield children with others of the county will see the last in the series on Friday at 4 p. m., in the high school auditorium at Greenfield. At that time the Children's Theatre company Clare Tree Major, director, will present "The Secret Garden," dramatized from the story by Frances Hodgson Burnett.

The scenes in the secret garden will delight the young audience which has keenly enjoyed the performances given by the Children's Theatre players this season. The cast will include several who have appeared in previous plays here.

On account of the illness of Mrs. Clare Tree Major, director of the Children's Theatre productions, the performance of "The Secret Garden," scheduled for last Friday afternoon has been postponed until Friday afternoon, April 8, at 4 p. m.

South Church Notes

Last Sunday, with the pastor in charge, Mr. Herbert C. Parsons gave a fine, helpful address in this church. Old friends were pleased to see him again and to hear him. He brought with him and left a spirit of helpfulness.

On next Sunday, April 10, at the morning service, there will be a message from an eminent Unitarian to be introduced in name at the time. The pastor will be again in charge.

"O my soul, be thou broad in thy sympathies O, my soul, be thou deep in thy convictions."—Dr. Fosdick in Sunday's radio sermon.

North Church Notes

A delegation from the Young People's Society of the North Church will attend a Rally of young people from the Franklin County Congregational Churches at Sunderland next Sunday afternoon at 4.30 and in the evening John Bicknell of Jaffna College, Ceylon.

Miss Ellen Bolton was the leader of the young people's meeting last Sunday evening. The topic was "Why do we have a church?"

The usual mid-week Bible Class was held Tuesday with Mrs. Smith and on Wednesday the Women's Missionary Society met to consider "Work in South America. Mrs. C. F. Taber and Mrs. E. F. Howard were the leaders.

Farmers' Loans

The County Loan Committee in charge of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Loans for crop production have received word that the following amendment has been adopted:

"Loans for the purchase of fertilizer and spray materials for potatoes in New England and New York and tobacco in Massachusetts and Connecticut may be made on the basis of the actual cost of these materials, not to exceed $35 per acre, the total loan to any individual not to be in excess of $400.00."

This makes the loan much more available and useful to New England farmers.

Applications for loans should be made to the Loan Committee at the Franklin County Extension service.

Appointments Confirmed

The appointments of Mr. George W. Piper and Mr. Jones J. Fisher as inspectors of meat provisions and slaughtering made by the selectmen at the time of their organization have been confirmed by the state authority. They are excellent appointments and both will prove competent and able officials.

And now Birnam Road has become distinguished again. This time it's "measly measles." Julia Ross, led the grand march of measles in such an impressive way that nearly all the other children who have never before marched to the tune fell in line and landed with the other marchers into darkened rooms—with an intermission—banquet of broths and gruels.

Among the names on our list at this time are William Ross, Matthew For-saith, Charles Taber, Murry Pallam and Margaret Skilton. We understand there are many other who are expected to fall in line soon.

Roast Sirloin of beef, mushroom sauce—sounds good and it tasted good at the Wednesday evening repast at the Northfield Hotel as many who partook will testify.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fitt at Green Pastures bears a large red sign. No—it's not a for sale sign—thank goodness—It's just a notice of quarantine that whooping cough prevails. Accordingly all gatherings at the home are indefinitely postponed for a time.

A postal card from Mr. Kenneth Leach the Treasurer of the Senior High School Class received from Washington by The Herald states the class members are thoroughly enjoying the trip.

Dr. R. H. Philbrick of Gloucester, Mass., formerly physician in Northfield was a visitor in town this week.

Barbers Display Card

Now that it is necessary that all barbers in the state register under the new law you will find displayed in the barber shops of Northfield that conform to the requirements of the law a card of Registration. There are nearly 15,000 barbers in the state and all must register.

Those who failed to do so are practicing illegally and are subject to a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment for not more than 90 days or both. Not only that, but if they failed to register, they harmed themselves, because hereafter the fee will be $10 whereas it was only $2 up to the 1st.

In addition to that, those who registered prior to the 1st had merely to pay the $2 and present a doctor's certificate of health. Those who register hereafter, whether they have been practicing for years or not, will not only have to pay $10, but will have to undergo a physical examination and also take an examination to prove definite knowledge of the business.

It seems that the barbers are to be protected and that the days of unsanitary shops and itinerant barbers are past.

James R. Torpey, 34, Westland street, Worcester, an inspector attached to the registry of motor vehicles, who is scheduled to appear in Framingham district court on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor has been suspended and his license to operate cancelled by Registrar Morgan T. Ryan.
